

Dear Teacher,

I'm writing to you because I need your help. You see, at the moment I'm feeling very sad.

In the old days, I used to be friends with lots and lots of different people who would all treat me kindly, but recently I've feel like nobody sees me at all. More and more people build on me – and some of them don't seem to know that I'm here. I used to be a home to lots of creatures – birds, hedghogs who could live in my plants and we all worked together.

Now there's less of me left, and I feel like people don't want to connect with me anymore.

In your last letter you asked me what might help – and I think stories would be best. I want to hear about people who like spending time with me, and about a future where we can all work together again.

Do you know anyone that might be able to help?

Love,

Nature

If nature was a character, what would they be like?

What would they look like?

Where would they live?

What would they enjoy doing?

What would you like best about them?

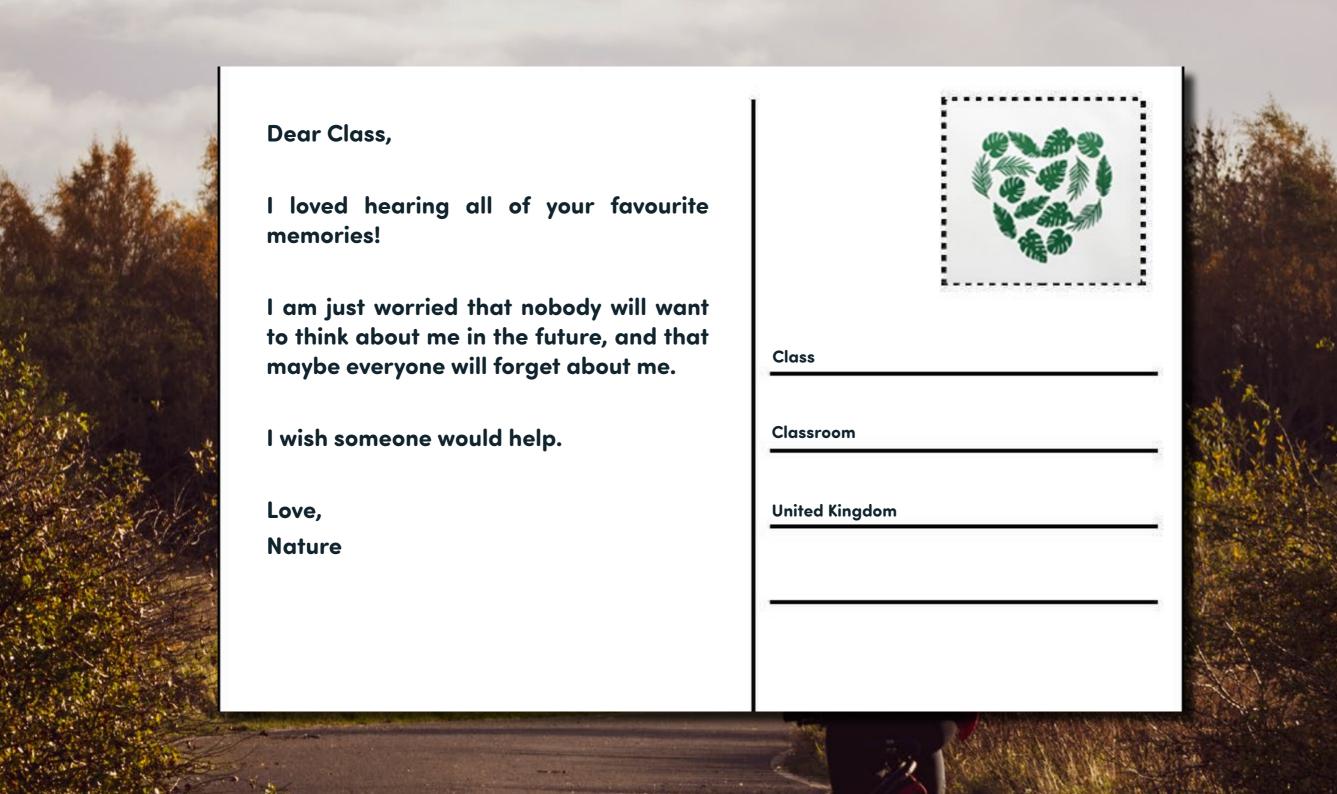

It's time to share our favourite memories of nature!

Where were you when you experienced the memory?

What happened in the memory?

What makes it your favourite memory?

We're sharing stories of how we might help nature in the future.

How would you like to help nature in the future?

Where would you go?

What would you do together?

How would it help nature to feel better?

Write a letter to nature about the relationship you hope to have together, and hoping that it feels better soon!
